ASI CHILDREN’S CENTER

CELEBRATING INTERNATIONAL MUD DAY!
This year, the children’s center took part in the International Mud Day celebration! International Mud Day was created by the World Forum Nature Action Collaborative for Children as a way to celebrate the outdoors, nature, and the joy of getting messy. To learn more about International Mud Day and its origins, please copy the link below:

The infant and toddler classrooms celebrated International Mud Day in their yards!
INFANT AND TODDLER MUD DAY!
International mud day at the children’s center could not have happened without the generous support of the Fullerton Arboretum which donated all the dirt to supply our mud day fun. Our support staff Cody and outdoor classroom intern Alba also worked very hard to help make the mud and set up our mud day activities for preschool.
When the mud was ready, the children were called out to have their fun. Some children were a little shy to the idea of mud play, others jumped in enthusiastically. Children were given their choice of activities. Some painted, baked or played with forest animals in the mud tables while others jumped and splashed with their friends in the mud pools. Several teachers joined in the fun as well!
And when it was time to get really dirty, many friends happily obliged!
The best part of the day was watching many of the timid children whole-heartedly embracing the mud play and enjoying themselves immensely. The children also had as great of a time cleaning up as they did in the mud.
INTERNATIONAL MUD DAY was a great success and we hope to do it again next year. Thanks everyone!