For Immediate Release:

AUTISM SPEAKS U AIMS TO RAISE MONEY FOR AUTISM AWARENESS MONTH

Autism Speaks U CSUF will be hosting a fundraising to kick-off Autism Awareness Month

FULLERTON— Autism Speaks U at California State University, Fullerton will be hosting a fundraising event at Bourbon Street in Downtown Fullerton on Thursday March 21, 2013 from 8:00 p.m. until midnight. The fundraising event is the first event of the year, whereas various other events will follow as April, Autism Awareness Month, approaches.

All money raised at the event on Thursday will be going to Autism Speaks, a non-profit organization aimed to help raise awareness about autism and its effects on individuals, advocate for affected families, and perform biomedical research, all in the hope to find a cure for Autism.

Cal State Fullerton and Autism Speaks U’s objective for the month of April is to connect students with those affected by Autism and to spread awareness in and out of the CSUF community. Autism Speaks U is a college initiative of the National Organization of Autism Speaks.

For more information about Autism Speaks U or any upcoming events, please contact Ray Sadri at president@autismspeaksucsuf.com, or visit autismspeaksucsuf.com

###