‘Thinking Queer’ Speaker Series hosts Being Queer in Orange County
LGBTQ Resource Center teams up with Joe Shaw to provide insight on LGBT issues.

FULLERTON, (CA) — The LGBTQ Resource Center, a resource center of Associated Students, Inc. (ASI), creates an inclusive and affirming CSUF community for all LGBTQ students and their allies, regardless of gender identity, gender expression, or sexual identity. The “Thinking Queer” speaker series is a collaborative series of lectures and program between the LGBTQ Resource Center and the Queer Studies minor program. Each program features innovative researchers and scholars that discuss challenges and/or issues facing the LGBT community. On Dec. 4, the “Thinking Queer” series will feature Joe Shaw, one of the few “out” politicians will be speaking on his experiences of being “out” in Orange County and in politics.

“The ‘Thinking Queer’ lecture series by the ASI LGBTQ Resource Center and the Queer Studies minor program bring on and off campus presenters to speak on LGBTQ issues,” said Brianna Sérráno, LGBTQ Resource Center Coordinator.

Thinking Queer: Being Queer in Orange County will be held Dec. 4 at 6:00 p.m. in TSU Pavilion B. Students, faculty, staff, and community members are welcome to attend. For more information about the Thinking Queer series and Being Queer in Orange County, contact Brianna Sérráno at (657) 278-3454 or brserrano@fullerton.edu.
