MAKE A SPASH THIS SPRING & LEARN HOW TO SWIM AT CAL STATE FULLERTON
Titan Recreation offers group & private swim lessons for youth & adults

Fullerton, Calif. — Titan Recreation, a program of Associated Students, CSUF, Inc. (ASI), invites the local community, as well as Cal State Fullerton students, faculty, and staff, to participate in the Learn to Swim program this spring. Instruction begins April 13th and ends May 12th. Classes are five-weeks long and held on Saturdays and Sundays from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Private lessons are also available upon request. Members of the community 6 months of age and above are welcome to enroll.

Titan Recreation Director, Alison Wittwer, said, “Learn to Swim is an instructional program that allows participants to gain confidence and achieve personal goals while learning to be safe in the water. Our Red Cross certified Water Safety Instructors will ensure those taking part in the program are provided with a safe and supportive environment.”

Lessons are each 30 minutes each and take place in the CSUF pool located east of the Kinesiology building. The 5-week spring session is $30 and campus parking is free on Saturday and Sundays.
