6. Reports

a. Chair

Rubio, Chair, encouraged everyone to review the documents before any Governance Committee or Board meetings and to come prepared with questions. Additionally, he invited anyone with questions about any agenda items to feel free to message him in the group chat.

b. Director, Student Government

Hesgard, Director of Student Government, started by emphasizing the importance of taking care of oneself, especially with cold and flu season approaching.

Hesgard highlighted that ASI scholarships were still open until October 14th and urged everyone to share this information widely. She mentioned that there were general scholarships available for all campus students, as well as specific scholarships for various student populations, including student athletes, formerly incarcerated students, undocumented students, international students, graduate students, and student parents.

Hesgard expressed gratitude for everyone's participation in ASI outreach efforts during the first quarter of the semester, noting that Board participation increased. Every Board member attended at least part of an events. Hesgard mentioned that there would be more opportunities for tabling events in the coming semester and indicated plans to consolidate that information for easier sign-up.

Hesgard listed upcoming events, including Transfer Fest and "Fall in Love with Fullerton" day, as well as an ASI Titans tabling event for voter registration, scheduled for late October.

7. Unfinished Business

8. New Business

a. Action: Resolution to Appoint the Director for the College of Business and Economics

The Committee will interview and select a candidate to serve as the Director for the College of Business and Economics effective immediately through May 31, 2025.

GOV 002 24/25 (Walkley-m / Daga-s) A motion was made and seconded to approve the resolution to appointing Shay Quock to fill the vacancy of the ASI Board of Directors for the College of Business and Economics, effective immediately through May 31st, 2025.

Rubio, Chair, yielding the floor to Hesgard, Director of Student Government, to review the selection process and introduce the candidates.

Hesgard reminded members that the Governance Committee oversees the appointments for any vacant Board Director positions. She noted that after the spring semester, there were vacancies in two colleges. Previously, the College of Education seat had been filled, and today, they would review the candidates for the College of Business and Economics.

Hesgard explained how the application process was conducted. The application remained open throughout the summer and into the Fall, resulting in two viable candidates.

Hesgard informed the group that the two candidates would each present about themselves, followed by a Q&A session where members could discuss their qualifications.

The first candidate, Anthony Eliopoulos, introduced himself as a third-year Finance major, 20 years old, from San Mateo County, with interests in weightlifting, cars, music, fashion, and cooking. He shared that he has a GPA of 3.6, is part of the Honors program, and has made the Dean's List for three semesters. This past summer, he interned at the Westin St. Francis in San Francisco as a Finance and Accounting intern, where he analyzed financial statements. In the previous summer, he worked as a management intern at the same hotel, leading the Food and Beverage Department with 75 employees and communicating with the local union about employee needs and benefits.

Eliopoulos mentioned his involvement in Titan Consulting, the Accounting Society, and the Finance Association. He is currently preparing for management consulting and finance, which has helped him develop critical thinking and data analysis skills. He emphasized his strengths in communication, adaptability, leadership, collaboration, and critical thinking. Eliopoulos concluded by expressing his aspiration to pursue a career in management consulting and finance, viewing it as a valuable stepping stone for his future.

Rubio, Chair, opened the floor to questions.

Brown asked Eliopoulos how he formed strategic partnerships with other student organizations. Eliopoulos clarified that he had not yet collaborated on any strategic partnerships but emphasized his relationship-building skills.

Nebedum inquired about Eliopoulos' time management techniques if he were to join Student Government. Eliopoulos responded that his involvement had taught him how to balance multiple commitments, indicating that he believed he could manage ASI responsibilities alongside his other activities.

Walkley asked Eliopoulos why he wanted to be on the ASI board and what goals he aimed to achieve if elected. Eliopoulos shared his passion for improving student experiences, particularly regarding alumni network engagement and advocating for student voices.

Rubio asked Eliopoulos to describe a situation where he collaborated with someone despite differing views and how he navigated that. Eliopoulos recounted a marketing campaign project he worked on with a colleague at The UPS Store, where they initially had different ideas but managed to combine their strengths for the best outcome.

Rubio noted the time commitment required for the Board, asking if Eliopoulos was available during those hours. Eliopoulos mentioned he had a class at that time but would work to reschedule it.

Brown ended with a question about Eliopoulos' cooking skills, asking if he was more of a chef or a baker. Anthony confirmed he enjoyed cooking, especially steak.

The second candidate, Shay Quock, shared his background as a third-year Business Administration major also from San Mateo County. He highlighted his entrepreneurial experience, including starting a small business that grossed over $40,000 while in high school and creating an incoming SDSU Freshman Instagram page with over 9,500 followers. Quock emphasized his commitment to community service through various initiatives, such as hosting a shoe drive and participating in a Mexicali missions trip where he helped to build homes in an underdeveloped village. Additionally, he worked with the Center for Autism where he helped to organize a holiday party.

Quock discussed his involvement in ASI as a Governance Ambassador and his current role as an account executive for the Daily Titan. Quock detailed his leadership experience in his fraternity, where he served as Secretary and Vice President, overseeing key committees and achieving significant engagement increases on social media.

Quock outlined his four primary goals if elected:

1. Building professional skills among students through targeted workshops on resume crafting, interview techniques, and effective networking tools.
2. Improving student support systems, specifically addressing the limited selection of Supplemental Instruction (SI) classes and access to business advisors.
3. Introducing an alumni mentorship program for underrepresented students to connect them with successful alumni for guidance in career development.
4. Increasing social media engagement by promoting opportunities and student success stories through more frequent and interactive posts on platforms like Instagram.

Quock concluded by expressing his dedication to implementing detailed action plans for each goal and fostering greater engagement within the College of Business and Economics.

Rubio, Chair, opened the floor to questions.

Walkley asked Quock how he would respond to negative feedback or student concerns as a member of the ASI Board of Directors. Quock emphasized the importance of keeping an open mind and representing the entire student body, rather than just a select few.

Daga asked Quock to describe a time he made a difficult decision that impacted others. Quock was unable to name a specific instance but reiterated his open-minded approach to all situations.

Neeki inquired about Quock's availability on Tuesdays and Thursdays, to which Quock confirmed he had only one class on those days and there would be no conflict.

Nebedum asked Quock about his experience starting the SDSU freshman page, and Quock explained that he chose SDSU for its more social environment but acknowledged Fullerton's larger student body.

Brown questioned how Quock's involvement with ASI has influenced his understanding of business programs. Quock admitted that he hadn't fully engaged with business programs yet but is committed to dedicating his full effort to learning about them.

Rubio asked Quock to describe a situation where he collaborated with others who had differing views. Quock recounted an event with the Center for Autism, where there was a conflict over whether to promote his fraternity or the Center for Autism. They compromised by creating a video that highlighted both.

Walkley asked Quock what inspired him to move from a governance ambassador role to ASI, to which Quock explained that representing the entire business and economics program would be an important step for his career development.

Brown inquired about Quock's experience leading strategic partnerships, and Quock highlighted his work with organizations like the Center for Autism and his job at the Daily Titan, where he brought in partnerships with businesses such as 7 Leaves.

Rubio, Chair, invited the candidates to remain in the meeting or to exit during discussion. The candidates remained. Rubio opened the floor to discussion.

Neeki had worked closely with Eliopoulos for a year and observed his professional skills, highlighting his personable abilities, which were crucial for ASI. She noted Eliopoulos' talent for remembering details about people, which fostered effective communication. Neeki described Eliopoulos as highly involved and impactful in various boards and activities, praising his perseverance, particularly in securing a summer internship that faced budget cuts. She affirmed Eliopoulos as a great candidate based on her firsthand experience.

Walkley expressed admiration for both candidates, noting their impressive resumes and strong presentations. He commended Quock for his clear goals and Eliopoulos for his desire to ensure every voice was heard. However, he mentioned a concern regarding Eliopoulos' class conflict on Tuesdays while appreciating his willingness to adjust his schedule.

Brown urged the board to consider Quock due to his previous ASI experience, suggesting this might ease the onboarding process. He also highlighted Quock's engaging presentation as beneficial for the current needs of the board.

Daga echoed Brown's sentiments, appreciating Quock's outlined goals and strategies for addressing issues faced by the College of Business and Economics.

Nebedum agreed with the value of Quock's tangible goals and planning.

Rubio applauded both candidates for their qualifications and presentations, emphasizing the importance of class schedules for board participation and addressing the difficulty of changing course availability.

Hesgard noted Quock's commitment to the Governance Ambassador program, which he might need to step down from if selected. She encouraged both candidates to continue their involvement in ASI regardless of the outcome.

J. Morales acknowledged the strong qualifications of both candidates, thanking the committee members for their engagement and questions during the meeting. He expressed excitement for the upcoming year, regardless of the voting outcome.

GOV 002 24/25 (Walkley-m / Daga-s) Roll Call Vote: (2) Elioupolos, (3) Quock. The resolution to appointing Shay Quock to fill the vacancy of the ASI Board of Directors for the College of Business and Economics, effective immediately through May 31st, 2025, has been adopted

9. Announcements/Member's Privilege

Brown addressed a comment made during the Board meeting on Tuesday, emphasizing the importance of understanding the Time, Place, and Manner policy. He clarified that one did not need to be a political science student to comprehend the policy but should grasp how it impacts their discipline and the students they serve. Brown stressed that policy encompasses various fields, including health, art, and environmental policy.

Rubio mentioned the availability of multiple ASI positions, including those in the Social Justice and Equity Commission, the Community Engagement Commission, and various election positions. He encouraged members to invite their friends to apply and emphasized the significance of these roles.

10. Adjournment

Rubio, Chair, adjourned the meeting at 3:21 pm

* What do you believe is the role of ASI on our campus and how does that role relate to this position?

I believe the role of ASI is to provide students with a platform to voice their concerns, ideas, and aspirations on our campus. This role directly relates to the position because it involves representing the interests of your college and being the advocate for thousands of students within that college. By taking on this role, I aim to be a proactive and vocal advocate for business students. My goals would be to address and resolve issues within the College of Business and work to enhance the overall student experience and academic environment in our college.

* Tell us about any relevant past involvement or work experience that you have and how it will help you as a Director for your college.

I am familiar with ASI as I have served as a governance ambassador. This gave me experience in interacting with teachers and faculty members. Although I have never had issues communicating with higher ups or new faces, this role gave me more experience for this position that I am pursuing. I am familiar with Roberts Rules and can facilitate as well as listen well in meetings. I can follow and create agendas as well as take meeting minutes. In the past I've worked as a coordinator for a small local business. At a young age, and often working alone, I was able to run the business at a high level. The skills and experience I have gained from this job would aid in my role on the Board of Directors.

* Why are you applying to the ASI Board of Directors? What do you hope to accomplish and/or get out of the experience?

I am applying to the ASI Board of Directors because I am looking to further increase my role in ASI. I hope to successfully represent my college and be a respected voice for the students. Finally, I believe that this role could possibly relate to my future occupation, and am hoping to gain as much from the experience as possible.

* Please state any other information that you believe should be considered in this application.

I am a dedicated student, and like to think that I am a strong communicator and have great people skills. I am looking to increase my role in ASI as I have started as a governance ambassador, and believe that this role would be a great next step for me.

Goal #1: Build Professional Skills

- Empower students in their career pursuits by introducing a series of targeted skill-building workshops
- Resume crafting, interview techniques, strategic networking, and effective use of career tools such as LinkedIn and Handshake

Why is this important?

- The value of professional development
- Campus organizations understand the value of professional development
- I want to level the playing field and help everyone make the most of the opportunities we have to offer at CSUF

Goal #2: Improve Student Support

- CSUF has one of the best Business and Economics programs in the California
- Current Issues:
  - Limited SI classes
    - ACCT, ECON, ISDS
  - Accessibility to Business Advisors
    - 11 business advisors for nearly 10,000 students
- Every student deserves easy access business advisors or SI classes
- If elected, I plan to expand these support systems

Goal #3: Alumni Mentorship Program for underrepresented students

1. Recruit successful alumni mentors from diverse backgrounds
2. Identify students
3. Pair a student with the alumni
4. Establish ways in which the student can receive support
  - i. Expand professional networks, navigate internships/job offers, resume building, and job shadowing
5. Recognize and highlight success stories, ultimately gaining more exposure for the program

Goal #4: Increase Social Media Engagement

Current Issues:

- CSUF promotes opportunities through emails
- Email engagement is extremely low among students
- CSUF Business account
  - Posted 10 times since the start of school
  - Extremely low engagement & high number of followers

How can we improve?

- Post 3-5 times a week
- Use polls, quizzes and questions on stories to increase engagement
- Create a series of instagram reels
- Feature student and alumni success stories
- Post business oriented tips

Thank you for listening!
