

Parent Resource

How to Take Your Kid's Temperature (The Right Way!)

Local, California, and Federal guidelines for reopening centers recommends that children and staff have their temperature taken prior to entry into a facility. There has been a lot of information available regarding different types and methods of taking temperatures. Parentalogue from PBS NOVA presents a great video summary on the different ways and tools that may be used to take children's temperatures.

Please click on the image below to access the video from Parentalogue.

