

Parent Resource

How to Teach Children About Cultural Awareness and Diversity

According to research, children have an awareness of similarities and differences in others by the age of 6 months. This article discusses ways you can have conversations with your children about their unique selves and others.

Click the image to read the article.