   Mitchell shared how he is hopeful that this will encourage and draw in students to the ECS Program. Mitchell shared that CSUF is #1 for graduating women and underrepresented students.

   Samaniego shared additional information on what the expansion would entail for ECS and how it would assist with attracting more diversity into Engineering and Stem.

   Chammas asked if there were any objections to moving to a roll call vote. There were no objections.
Decision:  BOD 035 21/22 (Governance) Roll Call Vote: 17-0-0
The motion to approve the resolution in support of the Engineering and Computer Science Modernization and Expansion Project has been adopted.

b. Action: Resolution for Approval of the Children's Center Fees 2022-23 (Children's)
The Board will consider approving a resolution for the approval of the 2022-23 Children's Center Fees.

BOD 036 21/22 (Children's) A motion was brought from the Children's Center Advisory Committee to the Board to approve a resolution approving the Children Center Fees for 2022-23.

Chammas yielded the floor to Sanchez to review the resolution and discussion from the committee.

Sanchez provided a brief overview and yielded to Dr. Edwards to provide additional information.

Dr. Edwards reviewed the resolution and shared information on the Children's Center and why the increase is proposed.

Dr. Edwards also shared that if we do not raise the parent fees, the additional costs would come from ASI and take funding away from our other ASI Funded Programs.

Dr. Edwards reviewed a report to provide additional financial information. The report is an attachment to the minutes.

Dr. Edwards also explained how the increased amount is determined.

Chammas opened the floor to questions.

Shah asked why the change to the weekly rates was larger than the proposed 3%.

Dr. Edwards responded that the weekly rate has an hour quantity increase as well as the 3% increase to the hourly rate.

Mitchell asked about the discrepancy between the 3% in hourly rate and the rate for weekly/monthly which is higher.

Dr. Edwards asked Palacios to come and share information.
Palacios confirmed that the difference in the rates is due to the number of hours used by families. They found that some were paying for 35 hours but were actually using the Center for 42 hours; the increase in the weekly rate reflects the actual hours used.

Palacios informed the Board this is only in relation to the full-cost families.

Sanchez asked how many families use the weekly rate and if any of the were subsidized.

Palacios responded that none of the families on the weekly rate are subsidized and that they do not have to stay with the weekly rate; they can choose to use fewer hours. There are seven families using the center at the weekly rate.

Carlsen asked if they are still under the same safety policies and whether or not capacity is back to the same levels.

Palacios said they are under the same guidelines and that the volume is the same as last year but has not been the same as the pre-COVID enrollment rate.

Velazques asked what is the ratio of Full Cost vs. Subsidized families.

Palacios responded the split is about 60-40; with 60 Full Cost and 40% Subsidized families.

Velazquez asked where the additional funding is coming from since the 60 does not cover the excess from the 40.

Dr. Edwards responded that ASI covers the remaining costs.

Chammas opened the floor to discussion.

Kelley shared that this is ultimately a decision if we want ASI to cover the difference, or adjust the rates to cover the costs.

Mitchell commented on the 3% and the weekly rate discrepancy.

Sanchez shared her support and said the increase is three percent and for the weekly rate, they do not have to stay on that weekly rate; if they want to attend less they will only see a three percent increase.

Dawson also shared support for the adjustment.

Diaz shared support for adjusting the Children Center Rates as needed on a more graduated basis. Diaz shared support for approving the change.
Samaniego clarified that the change to the weekly rate would only affect about 5 families who are Faculty, not on the subsidized plan, and only if they choose to continue at the weekly rate. Our concern should be if the change affects the students receiving funding and it will not.

Carlsen said he is conflicted because they will not be able to service at full capacity and are still under the old restrictions and safety protocols.

Kelley shared that she is also conflicted and understands that having small incremental increases was something the parents would like as opposed to one large change all at once, but was just thrown off by the percentages.

Chammas asked if there were any objections to moving to a roll call vote. There were no objections.

Decision: BOD 036 21/22 (Childrens) Roll Call Vote: 10-2-5
The motion to approve the resolution approving the Children Center Fees for 2022-23 has been adopted.

College Theme for 2021: Resolve

Vision: A democratic society in which people from all backgrounds can participate fully in civic discourse, building community, and enhancing social capital.

Mission: Preparing communicators to advance a democratic society by undertaking critical academic inquiry, serving the community, and engaging in ethical and professional practice across all communications industries and in related fields.

From the Dean: January 2021

As we start a new semester in the face of the ongoing pandemics of COVID and of systemic racism, all of us still raw from the White nationalist attack on the U.S. Capitol that we witnessed on January 6, I encourage us to focus this calendar year on the theme of “resolve,” which means strong determination to action.

First, we must resolve to continue building up our democratic society, which has been the mission of this College since its founding more than 30 years ago. Lest there be any doubt, let us be clear that the democracy we’re envisioning here is one that is multiracial and multicultural, in which people of every background can participate equitably in both the rights and the responsibilities of democratic society.

True democracy must support diversity, because — ultimately — diversity strengthens democracy. For the College, this means that enacting our mission toward our vision requires our firm resolve to continue improving ourselves — individually and collectively — in anti-racism, diversity, equity and inclusion. American democracy has yet to live up to its full potential, to embrace the ideal that “we the people” means all the people, including the ones who seem different from us, who may disagree with us, and who quite possibly even dislike us.

Second, we must resolve to offer each other support and strength, to give each other hope and help, and to encourage resilience and regrowth. Building up each other necessarily includes resolving to continue making anti-racist choices, both individually and collectively, so that we strengthen the diversity that undergirds true democracy in a multiracial society. And building up ourselves, i.e., strengthening our own resilience, means giving ourselves permission to learn, to fail, to self-correct, to rebuild, and to grow anew.

We must face the challenges before us with resolve — with determination and discipline, with grit and grace. I invite y’all to join me in resolving to continue this year our actions in support of democracy and of each other.

College Theme for 2022: Renewal

Vision: A democratic society in which people from all backgrounds can participate fully in civic discourse, building community, and enhancing social capital.

Mission: Preparing communicators to advance a democratic society by undertaking critical academic inquiry, serving the community, and engaging in ethical and professional practice across all communications industries and in related fields.

From the Dean: January 2022

The past few years have given us the opportunity to reflect on what we truly value, while reconsidering how we live out those values in ways that are authentic to ourselves, helpful to others, and meaningful to the society that we all share. For this calendar year, I've chosen the theme of “renewal,” in light of input received from faculty and staff at our all-College retreat last August and throughout the fall semester. It’s clear that, after years of continued uncertainties and upheavals in so many areas of our lives, we all need to find ways to renew both our commitments and ourselves.

First, I challenge each of us to recommit to our longstanding College mission of advancing democratic society. In the face of increasing threats to voter rights around the country, we need to renew our focus on the fundamental principle of a representative democracy – the right to free expression via the ballot box. In an age of more-pointed political partisanship, we need to renew our commitment to civil civic discourse, not merely in the abstract, but concretely in our quotidian practice. At a time of rampant misinformation spread via digital media platforms, we need to renew our ability to balance individual free speech with a social responsibility to purvey accurate and truthful information.

Second, I exhort us to examine the ways in which we must renew our curriculum, pedagogy, scholarship, and service. Let’s continue to update our course content, curriculum architecture, teaching approaches, and grading methods, so that our students are prepared for both their professional futures and their civic duties. Let’s think about our research and how we communicate it, so that we both reaffirm our desire to address pressing societal issues at the nexus of communications and humanity, and reinvent ourselves as public scholars who make research-based insights accessible to non-academics. Let’s use our on- and off-campus service activities to model civic participation and to support diversity, equity, inclusion and social justice.

Last and not least, I encourage us to reflect thoughtfully and to dig deeply into what renews each of us individually. For some of us, this personal renewal might mean a re-dedication to more rest and healthier habits. For others, this may entail remembering what brings us personal joy and professional fulfillment. Perhaps, a personal renewal means a recalibration of our goals and a redefinition of how we measure progress toward them. Or, we may find that true renewal requires embracing ourselves holistically to regain our personal equilibrium and sense of self.

The reality is that renewing ourselves individually is necessary to nurture collectively the renewal of our community, in which many members feel exhausted. I sincerely hope that this year of renewal will bring us more peace, greater wisdom, and a strengthened College, unified in our mission in service to democracy.

Hi everyone! Happy Tuesday. I hope everyone’s day is going well. Good luck on midterms! Take some time to rest during your studying. Casey, our Academic Success Coordinator made us new name tags for us to color in while we take a break from midterm studying! They’re in your office so make sure to stop by and use them.

I want to take the opportunity to thank the following Directors for advocating and participating in the legislative advocacy that is crucial in supporting students and their success while they attend college; Chair Mary Chammas, Vice-Chair Alison Sanchez, Nadine Palacay, and Hannah San Gabriel. I appreciate your advocacy in highlighting the importance of financial aid for students. For the rest of the Directors who have not submitted a video, please see your ASI email where I have sent directions on how to participate. Mary Chammas, Board Chair:
Hi everyone! I have a few things for y’all:
- Elections! Be sure to vote and encourage your colleges and ICC to vote!
- Angela Davis event was a success despite the unforeseen setback in the beginning. Thank you to everyone who contributed to making it happen!
- I apologize for not reaching out to the college pairs I have assigned my team and I to meet. However, I will be following up so we can meet to discuss college goals. Keep an eye out for an outlook invite from me for next week!
- BOD please re-table with your Deans before the end of April! It’s important to go out there, represent your colleges, and show your students you are there for them.
- I would like ASI to re-table as well, just like how we had breakfast the previous time. If you have any ideas for board tabling let me know! This will probably take place beginning or mid-April!
